SPINE Every relationship has a little tension. The relationship you have with your eyewear can have the perfect amount of tension that gives your head a hug, keeping your frames where you want them with ground-breaking fit and comfort.

Spine eyewear features a patented segmented hinge and cable system that flexes the temples in all directions, including inwards, securely holding the frame in place on your head – eliminating the need to constantly push your eyewear back up your bridge. Holding eyewear in its proper place is a fabulous feature when involved in activities, and a vital one for the proper fit of multi-focal lenses.

Now this is the type of tension every relationship should have.

PRECISION FRAME FITTING GUIDE

STEP 1 TEMPLE SIZE

Place your frame's right temple on the fitting guide to determine your size. Enter the temple size you desire on the order form.

STEP 3 FRAME WIDTH

Please use ruler to measure your current glasses. This will be used as a guide. Your new glasses may differ up to 2/8" from your current frame measurement. Each frame pictured in this catalog shows its size availability with its frame width, in inches, right next to it.

Measure your current glasses in inches, from hinge to hinge face down on the ruler.

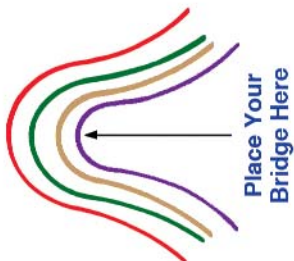

Example

Available Lens Sizes & Width
Large	5 5/8"
Medium	5 2/8"
Small	4 6/8"

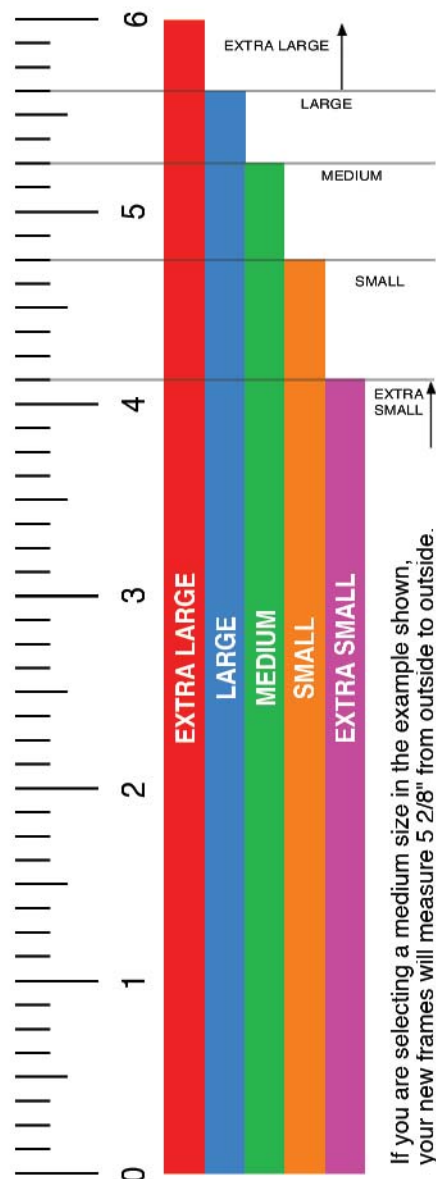

STEP 2 BRIDGE OR NOSE PIECE

Place the bridge of your own frame over the drawings and determine which color line matches your current bridge. Check the illustration to see which color corresponds to your bridge size.

Write the bridge size letter on the order form.

Place Your Bridge Here

If you are selecting a medium size in the example shown, your new frames will measure 5 2/8" from outside to outside.

Lens Designs

Single Vision Lenses

Single vision lenses have the same prescription power over the entire surface of the lens. Choose this lens design for Distance only (Driving, TV) or for Reading only.

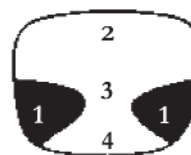

Bifocal/Trifocal Lenses

Bifocal lenses have a visible straight line that defines the areas used for distance and reading. The top area of the lens is used for distance and the small window at the bottom of reading. Trifocal lenses are designed with an additional mid area used for computer or intermediate distance vision.

Invisible Progressive Lenses

Provide optical correction at all distances. These lenses are designed to allow a smooth transition to see far, intermediate and close without having to remove them from your face. Driving, doing computer work and reading are all possible with the use of a progressive lens.

1. You will notice a small blurred area on both sides of the lens. This is necessary in order to fabricate the lens. It is off to the sides and should not interfere with your vision after wearing the lens for a short period of adjustment.
2. Distance Vision Area - for 24" and beyond.
3. Mid-Range Area - for intermediate Vision from 18" - 24".
4. Reading Area - from 12" to 18"

Lens Materials

Plastic

Much lighter than glass lenses especially in heavy prescription. Plastic lenses feel and sit more comfortably on your face as opposed to heavy glass lenses which leave indentations on the nose and slip down quite often.

High Index

Lenses are flatter and thinner and best for strong prescriptions.

Thinner. Have thinner edges than lenses with the same prescription power that are made of conventional plastic material.

Lighter. Thinner edges require less lens material, which reduces the overall weight of the lenses. Lenses made of high-index plastic are lighter than the same lenses made in conventional plastic, so they're more comfortable to wear.

Slimmer. A slimmer, more attractive profile and reduces the magnified "bug-eye" look that conventional lenses cause in strong farsighted prescriptions.

For the best vision and appearance, it's a good idea to have anti-reflective lens coating (AR coating) applied to your lenses. AR-coated high-index lenses transmit up to 99.5 percent of light to the eye for optimum vision.

Polycarbonate

Polycarbonate lenses are impact resistant, making them a better choice for active adults, sportswear, and safety wear. It takes a far greater force to break a polycarbonate lens than a comparable glass lens. The most appreciated feature of poly lenses is that they can be thinner than glass, plastic or Trilogy lenses. However, polycarbonate does weigh a fraction more than Trilogy.

The standard for safety glasses, sports goggles and children's eyewear.

Trilogy

The remarkable combination of properties in Trilogy lenses—light weight, thinness, structural integrity, superior optics and outstanding appearance—make them a great choice for all frame styles. With a specific gravity of just 1.11 g/cm³, Trilogy lenses practically float in water and are full 10% lighter than even polycarbonate lenses.

Note: Trilogy lenses are not available for prescriptions over -8.00

Lens Options

Transitions

Transitions lenses automatically change from clear to dark in sunlight and adjust automatically to changing light conditions - going from clear indoors to as dark as sunglasses in bright, glaring sunlight. Transitions lenses are indoor glasses and outdoor glasses, all in one. Protects against UV rays. Please check availability below and specify Grey or Brown lenses on the order form.

Please check availability below and specify Grey or Brown lenses on the order form.

Polarized lenses remain dark all the time and are not intended for indoor use.

NON-GLARE ANTI-REFLECTIVE COATING

Choosing the right lenses is critical to your visual health, and your spectacles are not complete without Non-Glare Anti-Reflective Coating. This coating is recommended for all lenses.

See Better Safer, more comfortable nighttime driving.
Look Better Lenses are clean, clear and glare-free
Feel Better Fewer headaches and less eye fatigue

Mirror Coated Sunglasses

Mirror coatings not only help you look your best but also safeguard your eyes from harmful visual elements of everyday life, including glare, ultraviolet light and infrared light.

Select the mirror coating of your choice:
 Silver Mirror with Tint & UV Protection
 Blue Mirror with Tint & UV Protection

For best mirror effect, a minimum of 70% Gray or Brown tint is recommended. Lighter tint intensity will diminish the mirror effect. Mirror coating are always applied on the front of the lens. Specify Silver or Blue Mirror and tint color and percentage on order form.
